WOMEN "SHINERS."

Before the Federal Court at Louisville for Selling Liquor Without Authority.

Typical Mountain Characters.

About once year a score or two of people are brought to Louisville from the mountain counties to answer in the Federal court charges of violating Uncle Sam's liquor laws. Some are there for illicit selling, and some for operating "moonshine" distilleries. A great many are easily convicted, as the deputy marshals, who devote their time looking after matters of this kind, have the witnesses on hand, and the trials are short affairs when compared to some of our trials for even misdemeanors in the State courts.

By no means, are the violators of the law all of the sterner sex, but women are not uncommon in the persons dramatics of these affairs, some of which are humorous, some comic and others dramatic and touching. The following from the Courier Journal gives some insight to the business.

The moonshiner women were in the Federal Court yesterday. They were there with babies and without babies, and those who did not have them told of little ones in their mountain homes.

Martha Tackett was tried for retailing liquor without a license. Her appearance was little indication of her age. She was low and bent until her head sat low between her shoulders. Her figure was small and clothed in a black calico dress. A little bonnet, with a long peak, sat just back of her forehead. As she took the prisoners' chair she gathered a thin black shawl close about her shoulders.

Half a dozen witnesses testified that they had bought small amounts of whiskey from her at different times in Pike county.

District Attorney Smith asked the woman if she wanted to ask the witnesses any questions, and she said "no" in each instance. She had no attorney.

When the prosecution had finished, Martha Tackett was asked if she wanted to testify. She said "yes," reluctantly.

"Did you sell any whisky?" asked Judge Barr.

"Yes."

"What did you do it for?"

"I sold it for my manumy's sake. She was sick, and I was not able to work."

"How long did you sell?"

"About three weeks."

"You were not able to work?"

"No, sir. If I had been 'blighted' to sell it I would 'sold it,' and her eyes searched the floor bashfully.

"That is all," said Judge Barr, and the jury returned a verdict of guilty.

When it came time for her to be sentenced Judge Barr asked her if she had anything to say. She said no, though she evidently did not understand what the Judge meant. By much questioning Judge Barr brought out the fact that she had two little children, and that her husband had died about four years ago. She had been in jail since June 22 and had not seen her children in that time.

"Judge I won't sell any more if you let me go this time. If you send me to jail I will never get to see my children. When I would get out I would not have any money to go home on and I would know how to git there if I did. The witnesses who are from up my way are goin' home now, an' they will take me back home of you'll let me go."

"I believe I'll let you go," said Judge Barr. "Don't sell any more whisky."

She cried more at this and said she would never sell whisky again. She left the stand thanking him and looking about her in a dazed sort of way for the witnesses she expected to take her back to her babies.

Sally Scott is a thin, little woman who had been indicted for retailing liquor without a license. Her face was rather pretty and she seemed to possess more than the intelligence of the average woman of her class. Her home is in Larue county. She pleaded guilty to the charge, saying she wanted no trial, as she had no money to employ an attorney.

Judge Barr asked her if she had anything to say before sentence was passed on her.

"I make an honest livin'. I have 'leven children and one of them's this 'ere baby," and she held a six-week-old child toward the court. Then she broke down and cried.

"A fine of $100 and thirty days' imprisonment," said Judge Barr.

She seemed perfectly satisfied with this sentence. She told Martha Tackett goodbye as she was led away by a Deputy United States Marshal.

(Philadelphia Record.)

The following table is given by the American Legation in Peking as approximately accurate, and is valuable, because it notes the population of each province, some of which, it will be seen, contain more people than the United States:

Province.	Population.
Manchuria	6,000,000
Chihli	18,000,000
Shantung	36,000,000
Shansi	12,000,000
Honan	22,000,000
Szechuan	68,000,000
Yunnan	11,000,000
Hupeh	33,000,000
Kiangsi	21,000,000
Kwochow	8,000,000
Anhwei	21,000,000
Chekung	12,000,000
Shensi	8,000,000
Fuh-kien	52,000,000
Kwantung	30,000,000
Hunan	21,000,000
Kingsi	24,000,000
Kwaugs	5,000,000
Kansuh	5,000,000
Total	413,000,000

The longest straight line that can be drawn in Chinese territory would be 3,350 miles, from northeast to southwest. The greatest breadth of the Empire is 2,100 miles. The circuit of the whole is about 14,000 miles, or considerably over one-half of the circumference of the globe. The Russian boundary is 5,300 miles. The coast line is 4,400 miles.

Hicks' Great Works.

Rev. Irl R. Hicks, the celebrated storm prophet, of St. Louis, is now a household name in nearly every home in America. His wonderful Almanac predicts the weather for a year ahead more correctly and accurately than any other publication or any other system.

The testimony of a large number of careful observers is that 99 per cent of Hicks' predictions are fulfilled to the letter. His series of annual Almanacs are now well and favorably known in all parts of this country and in foreign lands. The new Almanac for 1896 is the most practical and instructive as well as the prettiest of this splendid series. It contains 100 pages, printed on fine book paper, with covers elegantly printed in colors.

The matter, although scientific, is written in popular style, there being nothing difficult to understand about it. It is also finely illustrated. Don't confound this with some patent medicine pamphlet. It is nothing of the kind, but is a fine book, which sells at all news stands for 25c. This fine Almanac is given as a premium to every yearly subscriber to the Rev. Irl R. Hicks' well-known and deservedly popular paper, WORD AND WORKS. This unique journal is a peerless educator of the masses, and is fast becoming a household guardian and necessity in the homes of America.

Those who want to keep up with the advanced thought of the age in science, religion and all social, commercial, intellectual and domestic subjects, should subscribe for WORD AND WORKS. Subscription only $1.00 a year. You can send for both direct to WORD AND WORKS PUBLISHING CO., St. Louis, Mo. Single copies of WORD AND WORKS, 10 cents.

Some Questions.

A. A. Brown, an attorney of Cincinnati, has propounded the following questions to Roswell G. Horr, who had the famous debate with W. H. Harvey, the author of "Coit's Financial School," at Chicago:

1. Who asked for the demonetization of silver in 1873? What political party asked for the destruction of silver as redemption money?

2. If the measure was honest legislation, why was its purpose surreptitiously concealed beneath a misleading title?

3. Why was the word "silver" entirely eliminated from the title of the bill?

4. What was the great emergency that demanded the demonetization of the most valuable of the two money metals in 1873?

5. If 412 1/2 grains of standard silver was worth $1.02 before demonetization and would pay $1.02 to the credit of our government then held by European and English speculators, what was it if it was not the act of debt-paying power?

6. What was it that prompted Senator Sherman to such unseemly haste in pushing the bill before the Senate on January 11, 1873 declaring: "It is a matter of vital interest to the government, and I am informed by the government officers that it is important it should be passed promptly," to say when urging the immediate passage of this bill that it would directly strike down every silver dollar that had been coined by this government and then in circulation, at the money value of $1.02 for each $1, "I do not think it will take more than the time consumed in the reading of it?"

7. Who were the government officers who were declaring "it is important it should pass promptly," and what interest had they greater than the people to urge special legislation?

8. If a "gold standard" is essential to foreign commerce, why was it that, after suspending specie payments in 1879, during which year we were presumed not to possess a single gold or silver dollar for debt paying purposes, our imports of merchandise from foreign countries into the United States in excess of exports from the United States was $442,663,625?

9. What interest has the bond speculator in the continuance of the single gold standard?

10. Who was the author of the "mint bill?"

11. Why was it the press of the country was kept in dense ignorance of the purport of this measure that was so important it should pass promptly?"

12. Why did General Grant declare at the close of his eventful life, when discussing the bill, "I never suspected that bill affected the value of silver metal for money;" and why was he hoodwinked?

OBITUARY.

Died at the residence of his father, Aug. 18, 1895, George L. Parsons, in his 28th year. He professed faith in Christ in a meeting conducted by the writer in the fall of 1882, and united with the Dunn Springs church since which he led an exemplary Christian life. How inscrutable are the ways of an all wise Providence always taking those whom we least afford to give up, those whose Christian lives seem to be most useful. How sad the thought when we remember that George is dead. No more will we hear him as he meets his friends and loved ones, extend to them his familiar friendly greeting; no more will his life be a standing reproach to his associates in the community of their wrong doing.

But he is gone, and we, his friends bow in humble submission to Him "who doth all things well."

We would say then to the bereaved weep not as those who have no hope, you will meet the loved one again, on the shining banks of eternal deliverance, where you will roundly never more part to.

Funeral sermon was preached by Rev. J. S. Henry at his father's residence from John 13:7, where had gathered a large crowd of friends and relatives, after which his remains were borne to Dunn Springs cemetery, there laid to rest to await the resurrection morn.

A FRIEND.

Goods are sometimes "evils," as Franklin wisely observed. A liver pill is good for extreme cases of biliousness, but a milder and equally effectual remedy in all cases of biliousness are Ramon's Tonic Liver Pills and Pellets. Your druggist always carries them in stock, and they cost but 25 cents. This remedy cures completely, but without the severity of the average liver pill. Samples free.

Livingston County News.

(From Smithland Banner.)

Last week while Walter Piero who lives near Salem was in his barn holding tobacco a tie pole fell from the top of the barn and entirely crushed one of his legs. Pieces of bone were taken from the wound, and it is thought that amputation may be resorted to, at least it is thought he will always be a cripple. The sad accident is to be regretted, as Mr. Piero is one of our best and most enterprising farmers.

Last Saturday morning while jailer W. H. Taylor went into the jail to release the prisoners, and sent John Bennett, col., who is working out a $100 fine, to pump some water Bennett walked away and has not been found as yet. It is thought that he went towards Princeton and several are on the lookout for him. The jailer has offered a reward of $25 for his apprehension.

The Smithland people are greatly pleased over the improvements being made in the channel and harbor at the mouth of Cumberland. Capt. Cheatham deserves a great deal of praise for the earnest manner in which he has labored to remove all obstruction to navigation to the town. All this season the boats have come by and landed in safety, and with these improvements we feel assured that we will have a safe navigation the year round.

Mr. Geo. Jolly who has been in bad health since last spring is very low with typhoid fever and as the last resort the Dr. had him removed from his home to his father in law, but it was of no avail and his death is expected at any time, his wife also is very sick with fever and is unable to be with him.

The Herald says—
The Fiscal court held last week, appropriated $1,000 for repairs to the court house. The commissioners appointed were Judge J. L. Abel, D.A. Dunn and W. I. Clark. The repairs will include a new cupola, a new coat of paint, a new window, new desk for the Judge, Witness box, a new ceiling cover of steel, a 4 ft. wainscoting and other things. The court house will look like a new brick building when completed.

Caldwell County News.

(From the Banner)

Mr. Robert Cartwright, who lives three miles north of town, had fifty sheep killed Tuesday night by dogs. It is supposed that Mr. John Stevens' dog was in it and Mr. Stevens' dog killed.

The damage to the tobacco crop by frost in this county was not quite as great as at first thought, though severe enough. The first estimate was that one fourth of the entire yield was ruined, but now the loss is placed between 15 and 20 per cent, with a probability of being nearer the former figure.

There was a lively time in a quiet way at the court house last Saturday. E. T. Franks, of Owensboro, was advertised for a speech and the Republicans were on hand in considerable numbers. The Democrats had Ollie James, of Marion, here to answer him. They asked for a division of time, and when refused, dodgers were circulated, announcing that he would speak as soon as Franks finished. The latter made his speech in an hour and a half, and as he spoke the last word every Republican in the house grabbed his hat and made for the door, refusing to hear a word that James had to say. He pitched into them for this treatment and said it was part of their campaign of cowardice, which was begun by Bradley when he flew at the Eminence. A few of the Republicans, on getting out became ashamed of themselves, and came back, and enough Democrats came in later to make the crowd as large as it was before.

Orator Franks had the misfortune to meet James a time or two before, and he didn't want to get mixed up with the buzz-saw of "Whitey's" eloquence. The advantage of the affair was altogether with the Democrats.

A Good Story.

Two brothers kept a saloon in a Missouri town. One of them went to Chicago to lay in a stock of liquor. When he left home a revival was in progress in town and he had hardly reached the end of his journey when he received the following telegram: "Bill—Buy no liquor. Business is taking us to hell.—Jim." That night Bill went to hear Col. R. G. Ingersoll lecture. As soon as he got to his hotel he sent off a message as follows: "Jim—Hold off till I come. Have it from a prominent citizen of Illinois that hell is closed up.—Bill."

A White Wing.

The white Republicans of Louisiana are taking steps to form the white wing of the party into a separate political organization. They propose to sat entirely loose from the colored voters.

To Fight at Hot Springs.

It is now announced that the prize fight between Corbett and Fitzsimmons will take place at Hot Springs, Ark., at the time agreed upon Oct. 31. Gov. Clark will not tell what he will do other than he will take such steps as the law authorizes.

ONE YEAR ONE DOLLAR

Three speeches were made in Marion Monday. In the forenoon, Dr Farmer a Populist, addressed a small crowd at the opera house, and in the afternoon Mr. Charles K. Wheeler, of Paducah, and Mr. Payson, Populist candidate for Attorney General, locked horns. Mr. Payson presented the Populist doctrine in a good speech, and Mr. Wheeler followed him, and there was "music in the air." Mr. Wheeler is a logical clear and entertaining speaker and in a speech of an hour and fifteen minutes, he made a strong presentation of the Democratic cause. Mr. Wheeler is one of the coming men of the district. He has already given valuable services to his party.

The Courier-Journal is still pouring salt into the Democratic wound. As the election draws near and nearer, the Louisville Post gets wilder and madder.

Professions of faith are all right in their place, and their place is at the beginning of a row of good works.

The usual genial, stirring Wattersonian editorials of the Courier-Journal have given away to the lamentations of a Jeremiah, and the railings of a Pope.

Peace has her victories no less renowned than war, and the victory our countrymen are beginning to win over bad roads is one of the former's products.

Let us sincerely hope that the white-cappers have capped the climax and will forever and a day cease to handicap the peace and good fellow feelings of the country.

Messrs Crisp, Vest and Wanamaker have all recently returned from Europe, and each bring word that there is no hope of the powers of the old world lending any friendly encouragement to an international monetary conference, looking to the re-habilitation of silver.

The proverb about the leopard not changing its spots does not always hold good. The present generation can very well remember when the Courier Journal, in discussing financial affairs said:

"These facts demonstrate in a crystallized light that the single gold standard is universal instrument of enslavement."

Now that paper can not find a suitable epithet in the English language to apply to those who believed then and still believe the doctrine it then taught, and its futile editor now calls the Unimpeachable "jabberwocky."

The old leopard then said:

"We risk nothing in challenging any monometalist to deny that depression was and is the direct, legitimate result of monometalism. The blackchivelli who fathered John Sherman, himself admits it."

The new leopard now calls those who then and now accept its statement as the truth, "fanatics," "demagogues," "hypocrites" and "fools."

The old leopard said:

"There is not to-day in all the world a writer on the side of the single gold standard felony who would hazard his reputation as an honest man by asserting that the universal price contracting of this era is not the work of the dark is a universal and all powerful instrument for the enslavement of production to capital."

The new leopard growls with the ferocity of the hungriest beast in the forest, when his old food is now thrown into his new cage.

On last Wednesday Oct. 7, all hearts of the village were made to glow with the thoughts of a matrimonial affair, so many friends and relations gathered at the residence of the bride's father Mr. J. H. Robinson to witness the happy union, and at the appointed time when all was ready, Miss Etta Wofford and Mr. Bill Due, walked out of the floor followed by the bridal couple, after a short ceremony by Rev. J. J. Franks they were made one in bonds of love. Many congratulations were extended and all seemed happy. Bird Barger is the son of John Barger, and is liked by all who know him. Miss Lucy is the daughter of Harlow Robinson, and is one of many friends and associates.

Whose parting leaves a dark and silent place,

By the once joyous hearth,

A soul, whose beauty made that smile so bright.

For many weary days and sleepless nights the fond parents and loving friends watched o'er her, hoping at last to win her back to health again, but no! "Of such is the kingdom of Heaven," and the sweet, pure spirit took its flight up to our Father's home on high; and there, weeping parents, and sorrowing friends, she waits, with outstretched hands to "Guide all, till on that brighter shore

The severed wreath is bound once more."

Cash for butter and eggs. A. F. Griffith.

Marion Magisterial district will elect a Magistrate this year. Mr. W. F. Paris will probably be elected without opposition. He was appointed to fill the vacancy until this election, and no better man for the place can be found.

Stove pipes at Cochran & Baker's.

Mr. W. E. Dowell, of Montauk, is spending a few days' in Kentucky, we will probably have more to say, touching his visit, next week.

J. W. Johnson is still on the corner selling groceries cheaper than ever. Buy a Home by Monthly Payments.

Two houses and lots on easy payments, H. A. Haynes.

I certainly am selling goods cheaper than ever before.

Mrs. F. W. Loving.

Do as adversaries in law, strive mightily.

Buy out and drink as friends.

Mr. F. A. Hearn, of Chicago, was in town visiting his parents the first of the week.

Remember the corner when you want groceries, fresh and cheap. J. W. Johnson.

Mr. J. P. Swatzell and his daughter, Miss Annie of Elk City, Kan., are guests of Wm. Freeman's family.

Mrs. M. R. Gilliam returned from Tennessee last week; she spent several weeks with friends near Springfield.

Ladies, you will be sorry for it, if you don't see Mrs. Lovings splendid line of hats and millinery goods before buying.

Wait only a few days until the big show gets here. Cooper & Co.'s great Southern Rail-Road Show Oct. 21 prices only 15 and 25 cents.

Mr. L. H. James returned from Hot Springs Saturday. He is improved in health but has not gotten entirely rid of rheumatism.

Mr. William Lewis brought to our office a stalk of corn upon which are four ears of splendid corn. Each ear is at the end of a shoot.

Mr. James Smith, who had charge of Crittenden Springs last year, was in town Friday. He is selling goods for a wholesale paper house of Louisville.

Hon. J. E. Crider, of Fredonia, was in town Thursday. He had 36 acres of tobacco this year but succeeded in hiding it all from the frost, but about five acres.

Mr. H. C. McGoodwin, formerly a hardware merchant, of this place, was in town last week. He is now traveling for a wholesale hardware house of Louisville.

FOX-DRENKAN.—Sunday morning Oct. 13th, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Bill Drenkan, of Iron Hill neighborhood, Miss Cordelia Drenkan and Mr. Nick Fox were united in marriage.

The residence of Mrs. Faunie Lowery, near Gresswell, was destroyed by fire Monday night of last week. All of her household goods, and fifty dollars in cash, were burned. A newspaper caught fire, it is supposed, from her pipe; she awoke and found the paper burning, and then threw a bed quilt over the flames to smother them, but the fire spread to the quilt and then the carpet and in spite of her efforts every thing burned.

The burnt district of the town resembles some new Western town. Doss' place of business, a small box house, has painted across the front, "Oklahoma Saloon," just behind it is a small tent in which a pool table is being run, near that is a show tent; all of which is on one of the best squares in town.

The board of steward of the Marion station and Toledo circuit met at this place Monday to talk over the division of the parsonage property.

The consensus of opinion was that Marion should have thirty per cent of the property and the circuit the other fifty per cent. The matter cannot be finally settled until after their first quarterly meetings.

The keeping of the county paupers was let out Monday, and Thos. Lanhau was awarded the contract. He keeps the pauper at $6.25 per month and gets the fare free of rent. There were two bids besides Lanhau's; one $8.00 and one $7.00. This year the cost for each inmate was $7.00.

The Masonic grand lodge is in session at Louisville this week. The lodges of this county are represented as follows, Marion—H. A. Hodge and W. D. Cannon; Zion Hill—J. L. Rankin, Shady Grove—S. A. Frasier, Liberty—T. C. Campbell; Hurricane—A. J. Beabout.

Mr. Ed Threlkeld and bride of New Sillbury, Ind., are expected at his father's Mr. A. S. Threlkeld, of Kelley, to day. The groom is well known in this section, and the bride is a most estimable young lady of New Sillbury. The Princess with Mr. Threlkeld's many other friends in this section extends congratulations.

John C. Stevens and his son, John T. Stevens, Anderson county farmers, were attacked at their home by D. Hawthorne and Miss Stella McMichael, who demanded the retraction of some remarks reflecting on Miss McMichael. While the men were fighting Miss McMichael vigorously horsewhipped the Stevens'.

Judge W. H. Holt and Samuel H. Stone, the latter the Republican candidate for Auditor, will address the people at Marion, Thursday, Oct. 24. Hon. Augustus E. Wilson will also speak at this place Wednesday, October 30.

The examining trial of Lewis Sliger, charged with shooting Blakely, was postponed until December, in the meantime the grand jury will investigate the matter.

Bill Redds team took fright and ran away yesterday morning, and as the affair occurred on the principal thoroughfare of the town, it created almost as much excitement as the late life.

M. H. Weldon has sold his groceries to J. J. Bennett and is out of business for the present. J. F. Dodge, who has been with Weldon several years, is now with Bennett.

Don't fail to examine Mrs. M. L. Barnes & Co.'s stock of millinery goods you will find the goods up to date in style and at very close price.

Miss Emma Daniels, neice of J. T. Elder, is very ill at the home of her brothers in this place. She has typhoid fever and her recovery is exceedingly doubtful.

Hon. J. Fletcher Dempsey, Democratic candidate for railroad commissioner, will address the people at Marion, Monday, Oct. 28.

Rev. J. D. Fraser and family, the Methodist pastor, reached here yesterday.

By giving stylish goods and full value for your money we hope to share your patronage.

Mrs. M. L. Barnes & Co.

Mrs. F. W. Loving.

Mr. J. P. Pierce and his mother left yesterday to attend the Atlanta fair.

Rev. Bennett, of the Topeka circuit reached his week last week.

Peter Threlkeld, Esq.

The Masonic lodge at this place has an opportunity to purchase a lot in the rear of their lot at a much less sum than was stated in the paper last week. Previous to a few days ago the parties owning the lot they desired had not agreed to sell it at any price, but now an agreement can probably be made, and one that will enable them to build a larger and more valuable house. That corner is the best business point in town and a handsome house there will add to the town wonderfully, and be a valuable source of income to the lodge.

The pay for plows and teams on the public roads will be in the future just as it has been in the past. While a proposition to allow each road district the use of teams so many days was voted down, as were propositions to fix the price at a less or higher sum than heretofore paid, it was the intention of the board to leave the matter just where it was previous to the last meeting of the board.

M. M. Tabor was appointed road overseer.

Jemima Reynolds was allowed $5 to aid in her support.

Weddings.

JAMES-HUNT.—At the residence of Mr. S. B. Hunt, Mr. Jas. J. and Miss Cora Bell Hunt united in marriage, Sunday evening, Rev. J. L. Parry officiating.

HeLEN M. MILLER, nee R. A. Moore on a note of $1000, the Peoples store having assumed payment of said note. Messrs. A. J. Bennett, Foster Threlkeld, P. Croft; G. B. Crawford and Wm. Barnett, as sureties, where a most sumptuous feast was served.

New Druggist.

Mr. R. F. Haynes has purchased the Woods & Wilson drugstore, and will continue the business at the old stand. Mr. Haynes is already well known to the people of this section, having been engaged in the dry goods business here, until a short time ago. He is a thorough business man, reliable, pleasant, courteous and accommodating, he has been popular wherever he has done business, and his safe and plain business methods always make him friends. He has had experience in the drug trade himself, and he will keep Mr. A. Woods, an experienced druggist. He offers to the public all the advantages of a big stock, and complete line of the purest drugs on the markets.

Deeds Recorded.

Thos. N. Brooks to Alice E. Harris 35 acres for $160.

A. J. Belt, to J. U. G. Cleghorn 80 acres for $400.

T. M. Hamilton, to Mrs. C. E. Stallion 3½ acres for $300.

W. G. Carnahan, to Geo. H. Foster 33 acres for $750.

Jno. C. Baird, to A. C. Elder 43 acres for $350.

COMING!

COOPER & CO'S, Great Southern Railroad Shows.

This well known and popular tented exhibition will visit Marion on Monday, Oct. 21st.

It is one of the largest organizations that is touring the southern states, traveling on their own special train of cars and exhibiting at popular prices. Adults, 25¢; children 15¢. Two performances at Marion, 2 and 7 p.m., Monday, Oct. 21st.

Our big fire in Marion a few weeks ago embraced Dr. T. H. Cossitt's dental office, all of his instruments, machinery and materials were burned up, but he has now a new outfit, better than he had before, everything late and improved in the dental business.

He guarantees all his work to be first class in every particular, and his prices are very reasonable, no more than any other dentist. He is very thankful to the people of this town, county, and the surrounding counties, for their favors in the past, and now in consequence of his losses solicits a liberal share of your patronage in the future. He will come to your house in this or surrounding counties for dental work without extra charge. His office now is at the head of the steps, on the right, over Moore's store.

Bill Redds team took fright and ran away yesterday morning, and as the affair occurred on the principal thoroughfare of the town, it created almost as much excitement as the late life.

The tongue support sold by Clement & Cruce, it is a good thing and more useful, convenient and labor saving than the tongue supports sold by Clement & Cruce. I consider them well worth the money. I would not take five times the amount and do without it.

M. C. O'Hara,

You sir, that support is a thing of necessity, and is as handy as a pocket knife.

"I was delivered of TWINS in less than 20 minutes and with scarcely a pain after using only two bottles of our father, would thou solemnize Our hearts, and in thy power Descend into our midst in this Most gladly, solemn hour!"

Be with us in our work, and send Thy presence over all! Here dwelt before Thee; let Thy love In gentle merriness fall!

And Father, bless our young friend Chat; O may Thy blessings follow His footstep as he wanders through The wilds of Panther Hollow!

O Thou who hast closed the lion's mouth, And saved old Daniel's life, Protect and bring Chat safely through, Though perchance may be rifle!

(As Brother Franks had reached this point, "Amen!" said Brother Miley, And, in a tone of earnestness, "Amen!" cried Mr. Riley.)

CHAT'S PERIL.A Story of Panther Hollow.

CHAPTER XVI.

AT THE CHURCH

The church—a handsome structure too. As has been said before, was strewed with flowers and evergreens.

From climbing to the floor.

And as the shades of night drew nigh, And the hour of eight, A merry crowd had gathered there, Afraid of being late.

Among the first arrivals were— Then they would be late— And were, of course, the jolliest— Dave, Johnny Dee and Fate,

"Well, Dave, I'm glad to see you here Tonight," said Johnny Dee; "You brought your dog along with you."

And your horn and gun, I see."

"Yes," answered Dave, "I thought I'd go." Around through Panther Hollow, But now I'll tell you something strange— My hounds refused to follow."

"They'll go along awhile and then come back." And while, if in fear; I did not go to go alone, And so I came back here."

"It must have been wolves," Fate spoke up. "I've often heard it said That dogs would never attack them; They seem to have dread."

"Dogged if I know, Fate," Dave replied; "They're never refused before; These hounds are brave as any dogs— Got them from Lucy Moore."

Their talk was interrupted here— Although to them no harm— For in came Northcutt and his wife, And also Brother Franks.

Large crowds from all the country round— Were gathering all the while, And soon the church, the very large Was filled from aisle to aisle.

So time passed on—swifly, of course, To Dave and John and Fate, And all the rest—and soon they heard The town clock striking eight.

Its tones had hardly died away, When walking up the aisle, There came the bridegroom's messenger Dressed up in spindrift style.

A stillness reigned throughout the house.

"That's John Winfield," said Fate, The man spoke up: "The bridegroom's here!"

Why should we longer wait?"

"I'm at his service!" Fran's replied; "Inform the bridegroom, John; For everything is ready now— Tell him to come right on."

"Just wait a short time if you please," Then spoke up Brother Miley. "For all things are not ready yet!"

"No," answered Riley, "Chat's not here, I think he'll soon be though; Suspect he rode Dock Driver's mule—he travels rather slow."

They waited there in much suspense— A half an hour, as to that— And still no messenger arrived; No news was heard from Chat.

"There must be something wrong," "Or else he would not tarry."

And scarcely had the words been said, When in came Fent and Carrie.

"Well, Fenton, what does all this mean? Where's Chat?" asked Brother Miley.

"And did he ride Dock Driver's mule?" Then added Mr. Riley.

"In Panther Hollow—dead or alive," Said Fent to Brother Miley;

"Nor did he ride Dock Driver's mule," He answered Mr. Riley.

"I left him as the sun went down, For Carrie—precious soul!— He told me that he would meet with us At that old swimming hole."

"Waited, but he never came; We heard the town clock toll The hour of eight, then off we went, And left the swimming hole."

But Fent was interrupted here.

"Tell Corry now to come on in," Said Brother Franks, "I'm ready."

"Then Corry followed on behind— His smile could not hide— And Josie, young and beautiful, Was walking by his side.

They went up among the flow'rs, Where Milton had led;

Then Brother Franks, with gentle mien, And solemn accents said:

CHAPTER XVII.

BROTHER FRANKS' CEREMONY.

Wherefore, my friends, God has ordained, Since time's first revolution, That we, his children, should employ This holy institution.

Now let us first, in gratitude, Lift up our hearts today. Into thy blessings on us all. So howing, let us pray;

Our father, would thou solemnize Our hearts, and in thy power Descend into our midst in this Most gladly, solemn hour!

With us in our work, and send Thy presence over all!

Here dwelt before Thee; let Thy love In gentle merriness fall!

And Father, bless our young friend Chat; O may Thy blessings follow His footstep as he wanders through The wilds of Panther Hollow!

O Thou who hast closed the lion's mouth, And saved old Daniel's life, Protect and bring Chat safely through, Though perchance may be rifle!

(As Brother Franks had reached this point, "Amen!" said Brother Miley, And, in a tone of earnestness, "Amen!" cried Mr. Riley.)

And bless poor Laura, in her grief, O may she find a friend In thee! O fatheymy it be blessing in the end!

Our daughters, too, do not escape; Their dangers too are ripe; They often leave a loving home To be a drunkard's wife.

And yet our girls are smitten so! He's got, perhaps, the cash His father left—won't have it long— Or else a nice mustache!

And so she answers sweetly, "yes," A drunkard's wife! She sees it soon— But 'tis, alas, too late!

Some fool has faithfully said— This fact we've heard a little— That ev'ry girl finds heaven 'll Whenever she's made a blyde.'

The poet might have also said— Just to reverse the story— That ev'ry man finds paradise, Or leaps in purgatory!

And now, my friends, I've had my say: I see that Brother Lafe Is getting sleepy—so is Fate— Now are our young men safe?
